Labour must repeal all the anti-union/anti-strike laws

This statement, launched by the Free Our Unions campaign, has already been signed by 600 Labour MPs and candidates, party activists and trade unionists. Please add your name. (If you tick to stay in touch you consent to receive regular communication from Free Our Unions, mainly by fortnightly email updates. Your data will be held securely.)

“The reality is that strikes are only semi-legal in Britain, as result of numerous laws introduced over almost four decades. In line with the votes at Labour conference in 2015, 2017, 2018 and 2019 – and at TUC Congress 2019 – all these anti-union laws, from Thatcher’s 1980 Employment Act to Cameron’s 2016 Trade Union Act, must be scrapped, and replaced with positive rights for workers and unions, including a strong right to strike.”

Name	Union branch, CLP, positions	Phone	Email	Stay in touch?